To whom it may concern:

Working with LG First is like becoming a VIP for every shipment leaving your location. We've worked with many different carriers and various brokers in the past who talk the talk, but end up dropping the ball when we need them to walk the walk. Rasha and her team have endeavored to make our shipments number one every step of the way & this service is what our clients really want. Each of our clients are #1 is our eyes, and LG First is there to help make the final experience with our company a pleasant one. At the end of every production line you still have to deliver product to the final client, and the experience that the carrier provides reflects on your company. We've given LG First the opportunity to move over 200 of our shipments during this past year, and I have no complaints about how these shipments were handled. On time delivery, service with a smile, zero damages & zero lost orders are just some of the perks of working with LG First.

FedEx Freight & the other big LTL companies out there offer competitive pricing, connections across North America & beyond; the problem with working with these big companies is that your orders get lost in the shuffle. We've had orders delayed with other carriers solely because they had too much freight, so they left our orders on the dock for the next day. How would your clients feel if their order just got left behind since the carrier didn't have enough trucks? Give LG First a chance and I'm sure you will not be disappointed. The personal touch provided by LG First allows our shipping team to relax; knowing that your shipments will arrive on time with no damage is something you can't put a price on. Working with sensitive paper products that cannot be stacked or mishandled isn't for everyone, LG First has proven to be able to handle our special requirements and I'm sure they will serve you well.
